You think your family is messed up? A comedic short film about a dysfunctional Jewish family held hostage on Thanksgiving. #FML

It's Thanksgiving night and siblings Abby and David just want to quickly eat their turkey and ditch their overbearing "still has their umbilical cords" Jewish mother. Before they can make their getaway, Gary, a deranged ex-convict, breaks in and takes the family hostage.

Tensions are high, family secrets are revealed, and Gary's getting so annoyed he's starting to regret this. At least Grandma is here to calm the family down. Just kidding, she's crazy. Can this dysfunctional family make peace with one another before they're offed? Oy vey!

Directed by: Alexei Slater | 11 min. United Kingdom, 2017

THE RABBI

Directed by: Uriya Hertz | 20 min. Israel, 2017

Michael is a charismatic and much-admired Rabbi at a Jerusalem Yeshiva. When his favorite student, Gadi, shares with him his innermost secrets, Michael's familiar, secure world comes into question.

Israel has a tradition of producing excellent LGBT+ cinema in the last 15 years, including Eytan Fox's 2006 drama The Bubble and 2009's Iris Prize winning short film Steam, directed by Eldar Rappaport. But while many aspects of life in Israel have been explored, including its politics, the country's fraught relationship with its neighbours and military conscription, it isn't often we see Judaism put front and centre in a gay drama.

The title character of The Rabbi is Michael, played by Gur Yaari, a married man teaching at a Jerusalem yeshiva, or religious college. When a favorite student admits to being confused about his sexuality, Michael finds that he must confront his own sublimated desires. This subtle, understated drama is more about those things that go unsaid than the soap opera pyrotechnics of full-blown arguments, and a frosty dinner scene, where Michael's student joins the Rabbi's family for supper, positively fizzes with pent-up energy and emotion.

TWICE ORPHANED: HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS' LAST BATTLE

Directed by: Talila Frank | 57 min. Israel, 2016

217 aged Holocaust orphans sue the State of Israel, which they founded. Confronting their "official guardian" revives their pain of orphan hood. During their struggle, they find consolation in their closeness.

Avraham, Ziggy, Schreiber and Robinson form the uncrowned governing council of the "Teheran Children." The four represent 217 Holocaust orphans who are now bringing legal action against the State of Israel for monies received from Germany for their rehabilitation.

In their old age, they have set out to battle the State of Israel, the state of which they dreamed and established through their own hard work. The confrontation with the State, their "official guardian," once again floods them with the pain of orphan hood. The dozen stormy years of struggle have transformed them into a group with love, a shared fate, and consolation.

FIRST ANNUAL YOM HASHOAH SPEAKER SERIES

Sami Steigmann has been many things. He has been a victim of the Holocaust. When he was liberated, he became a survivor. Now, he is a motivational speaker.

ABOUT OUR GUEST SPEAKER:

Sami Steigmann's life story is remarkable. He was born on December 21, 1939 in Czernovitz, Bukovina, part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire belonging to Romania. Later, it became part of former Soviet Union and today it is in Ukraine. From 1941 through 1944, he was with his parents in the Ukraine at Mogilev-Podolsky, a labor camp in an area called Transnistria. The camp was liberated by the Red Army and his family was deported by the Romanians, not by the Germans. He grew up in Transylvania, in a small town called Reghin. He did not know the language. In 1961, the whole family (his sister was born in 1946) emigrated to Israel. He served in the Israeli Air Force, not as a pilot. In 1968, without knowing the language and no money, alone, Sami came to the United States. He lived in Milwaukee, Wisconsin where he married, divorced and eventually, in 1983 returned to Israel. However, in 1988, he returned to the United States, choosing New York City as his final home.

THE STORIES WE TELL

Documentary Screening and Director's Discussion

Hosted by Rev. Nancy Soukup, Multifaith Chaplain

TRIPTYCH

Directed by: Katia Lom | 8 min. United Kingdom, 2018

'Triptych' is a short film reflecting on the nature of time and memory as a daughter empties her late father's home. Based on the true story of the director's mother escaping Czechoslovakia in 1951 at the age of four with her parents through the woods at night, the narrative blurs the line between fiction and documentary. The film deploys a non-linear structure to express the consequences of war on civilians throughout their lives through the prism of the Stalinist show trials erupting in Prague as a direct result of the events of WWII. By using real vintage artifacts from Czechoslovakia and photographs from a variety of archives, 'Triptych' highlights the significance that objects hold in bearing witness to the past and connecting future generations to that history. With millions of people displaced as a direct consequence of armed and political conflict at this present day, the film attempts to bring to light both a personal and global experience.

Starring Lisa Diveney and Simon Stephens, Triptych was captured on 16mm for the live action sequences with all of its animation scenes created in-camera with a combination of replacement, stop motion, hand-drawn and pixilation animation.

CHASING PORTRAITS Directed by: Elizabeth Rynecki | 77 min. Canada, Israel, Poland, USA, 2018
One man's art. One woman's unexpected path to healing.

Moshe Rynecki's body of work reached close to eight hundred paintings and sculptures before his life came to a tragic end. Decades later, his great-granddaughter Elizabeth sought to rediscover his legacy, setting out on a journey to find what had been lost but never forgotten...

Spanning three decades of Elizabeth's life and three generations of her family, this compelling documentary is a deeply moving narrative of the richness of one man's art, the devastation of war, and one woman's unexpected path to healing.

4:15 p.m.

TRANSCENDING BOUNDARIES
