Three Films that Premiered at the Flickers: Rhode Island International Film Festival Earn Oscar® Nominations

Festival Opening Night films given Oscar® nod: "Asad," "Buzkashi Boys" and "Henry"

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (January 10, 2013) – It's official! With the announcement of the nominations for the 85th Annual Academy Awards, three (3) short films from the Flickers: Rhode Island International Film Festival (RIIFF) have received nominations. Last year, a record five films affiliated with the Festival received nominations with two going on to win the coveted Oscar®: "The Shore" directed by Terry and Orlagh George; and "The Fantastic Flying Books of Mr. Morris Lessmore," directed by Directed by William Joyce and Brandon Oldenburg.

"Rhode Island is definitely an important Oscar® incubator. Not only are three of the films that premiered at the Festival are being honored this year with nominations, but Wes Anderson's 'Moonrise Kingdom,' which was shot entirely in the State of Rhode Island, has been nominated for an Academy Award in the category of Best Original Screenplay. And, Rhode Islander Jennifer Lee's work as a writer is being recognized with the nomination of 'Wreck it Ralph,' for Best Animated Feature." said George T. Marshall, Executive Director/CEO.

"The reputation of the Festival among filmmakers is that of a portal for discovery. Since 1999, we have seen 29 films screened at the Festival go on to receive Oscar® nominations and most of the directors were present for the screenings, so they discovered our state as we discovered their work" he noted. "Add to that the hard work of the RI Film and Television Office which has created and fostered a film arts and industry friendly environment, and you have the results we are seeing this year!"

RIIFF is an official qualifying festival for the Short Film Academy Award through its affiliation with the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences. It is the only festival in New England with this accolade. A list of films that have been nominated and won Academy Awards affiliated with the Festival is attached along with a list of Film Festivals worldwide that are nominating events for the Academy.
