

LOCATION: The Shorebreak, Narragansett Cinema, 3 Beach St. Narragansett, RI
Friday, October 19th, 2007

7:00 p.m.

CHILL, Serge Rodnunsky, Director, 85 min. 2006 USA In this classic retro horror chiller, Sam (Thomas Calabro, "Melrose Place"), an aspiring writer, gets a job as a clerk in an inner city grocery mart owned by a mysterious Dr. Munoz (Shaun Kurtz), a former research scientist who claims to have a rare skin condition that forces him to live in sub-freezing temperatures. Inspired by H.P. Lovecraft's spine tingling short story of the macabre, "Cool Air".

9:15 p.m.

CTHULHU, Daniel Gildark, Director, 85 min. 2007 USA Cast: Jason Cottle, Cara Buono, Scott Green, Tori Spelling Global warming is creating widespread economic and political chaos: Russell Marsh (Jason Cottle), a young, gay Seattle history professor is called on by his sister (Cara Buono) to execute their mother's estate. Reacquainted with his hometown, boyhood chum Mike (Scott Green) and with his father, (Dennis Kleinsmith) the charismatic leader of a New Age cult, Russ, exploring memories, wanders into a warehouse where hundreds of names are listed on the walls. Dreaming of a stone cudgel, he awakes to find it in his motel room: the town drunk warns it is an instrument of sacrifice, and a young liquor store clerk enlists him to help find her brother, who she believes has been taken by the cult. In an asylum, Russ' aunt says his mother left a message hidden in her house, sealed by fumigators until auction. Looking for answers in the warehouse, Russ is taken on an unbelievable journey through the small town's ancient, subterranean origins. Escaping he and Mike share a long-awaited tryst, after which they find the girl's brother murdered. Russ begins to believe preparations are underway for a mass sacrifice, and engages the attentions of sexy seductress Susan (Tori Spelling) in order to get information. After Susan rapes him and he is arrested for murder on the night of the May Festival, the stakes are raised - maybe higher than the world has ever known. Mixing horror, humor, human drama, and bitter political commentary, CTHULHU is a startling vision of the world to come.

Saturday, October 20th, 2007

7:00 p.m.

Voodoo Bayou, Javier Gutierrez, Director, 12 min. 2007 Mexico
<http://www.voodoobayouworld.com>

Mr. Video, Alex Masterton, Director, 15 min. 2006, UNITED KINGDOM
Frustrated with having to compete against DVD piracy, the owner of a small video store decides to fight back and save his ailing business.

FEATURE:

EASTER BUNNY KILL KILL, Trent Haaga, Director, 80 min. 2006 USA
A young boy's Pet Bunny Gets revenge on those who would harm him

9:00 p.m.

Night of the Hell Hamsters, Paul Campion, Director, 16 min. 2006 United Kingdom, New Zealand

It's a dark stormy night...JULIE, a mischievous and sporty student, is babysitting the neighbors' children when her boyfriend KARL pays her a surprise visit. At first disappointed that he failed to bring along the ouija board that she's been wanting to play with for ages, Julie fashions one out of a child's alphabet toy and a drop of Karl's blood. Determined not to go the way of The Exorcist but hoping for a little fun, Julie and Karl make up a silly name and see if anyone or anything answers their call. And then lightning crashes just outside the door – sparks fly – and somehow the poor family hamsters are fried to a crisp. Then again, maybe not. When Karl takes one out of the cage to check on it, the hamster viciously attacks him. When the second one climbs up inside his trouser leg and starts having a go at his private parts, it's the beginning of the end for Julie and Karl ... and for the rest of the world!

FEATURE:

PRETTY DEAD THINGS, Richard Griffin, Director, 80 min. 2007, USA

Starring William DeCoff, Danielle Lozeau, Patrick Pitu, Ross Kelly, Ashley Eaton, Jason Witter, Salvatore Marchese, V. Orion Delwaterman, Donald C. Foley, Robin Watkins, Jennifer Scharf, Rocky Graziano

Pretty Dead Things is a lurid tale of vampires, porno actors, political corruption, revenge, true love, and one seriously cheesed off pizza delivery boy.

Sunday, October 21st, 2007

7:00 p.m.

Mr. Bubbs, Todd Thompson, Director, 7 min. 2007 USA

FEATURE:

BACTERIUM, Brett Piper, Director, 85 min. 2007 USA

Cast: Alison Whitney, Benjamin Kanes, Miya Sagara

When a handful of friends stumble upon the abandoned building, they come face to face with a biological weapons experiment gone catastrophically wrong. They also confront a maniacal scientist who predicts life on Earth will end in 48 hours if the accelerated bacterial mutation cannot be halted. As the virulent, flesh-hungry contagion spreads from person to person – rendering each host into a pile of infectious ooze – it begins to multiply and increase in size. A covert military force sent in to contain the spread and destroy the organism discovers the extent of the slithering mutation, but by then it's far too late for conventional tactics. Extreme measures are required...if anyone is left standing in one solid piece to do battle.

9:00 p.m.

Voodoo Bayou, Javier Gutierrez, Director, 12 min. 2007 Mexico

<http://www.voodoobayouworld.com>

FEATURE:

BRAIN DEAD, Kevin S. Tenney, Director, 92 min. 2007 USA

The story of six people caught in the unusual (except in horror films) predicament of being stranded in a deserted fishing lodge with a host of alien-infected, mutant amoeba-controlled zombies at their doorstep.